The many friends in Campbell of Mrs.
Brown who formerly lived in the Lane
house on Central avenue will be grieved to learn that she was called to the city suddenly last week owing to the fact that her brother, Harold Daniels, met with a fatal accident in falling from the topmost flooring of a scaffolding of a three-story building he was engaged in painting.
Just how he happened to fall will probably never be known.

366 DAYS IN PRISON

A Series of Articles on Experiences in Andersonville Prison by I. Preston, Who Was a Prisoner of War for Over a Year

Chapter IV

In the fall of '64 there was great excitement on the part of the rebels for there was to be an election of president of the United States and the candidates were A. Lincoln and Geo. B. McClellan.
"Little Mack," as he was then known was the Democratic Nominee. We concluded to hold a straw or bean election in the prison to get the expression of our boys for we said if Lincoln received a good majority in there, he would be elected by a very large majority in the Northern States and it is well known that he was. We noticed the rebels were all for their friend "Mack." They cheered for him because he was a Democrat.

Out in the hospital department we made a small bonfire from the splits of the pine trees and we sang songs and a
Mr. Rider and myself were the speakers.
It was my first and last political speech, however, I did the best I could. Several of the rebel officers came in and listened to us but I venture they did not get any bouquets from us. It was not their funeral and it they did not want to hear what we had to say about their rotten Confederacy they could stay outside. It was a long time before we heard the results of the election at home but, when the glad news came, it was our turn to give vent to our feelings, which we did with all the power we had left and it was given with a great discomfort to the rebels.

At one time when there was a great shortage of rations for the prisoners a Col. O'Neal came to the stockade and hospital and wanted all the Irish to come out and take the oath of allegiance to the Southern Confederacy. So they were all ordered out to the gate and I played I was Irish too and went out to see what was wanted of us. We listened to his story and then he ordered all that would take the oath to step three steps to the front. Not a man responded to his request and all marched back through the gate with their hands on their backs and many of those brave noble men went back to their death rather than dishonor themselves and their dear ones at home.
Never do I wish to see any truer devotion to country and flag than was shown by those noble Irish boys. When once more we were inside we gave three lusty cheers for our flag and country and three groans for the Southern Confederacy and all it stood for—slavery.

Next came a bogus order for an exchange of all prisoners and then we had cause for cheering again and it was done repeatedly for an affect on the poor weak boys. Disappointed,—many would give up and soon be dead. This was the aim of those who had charge there.

One thing was practiced there which was a disgrace to any people that claimed so high a civilization and culture. This was the keeping of a gang of blood-hounds for the purpose of hunting us down; in case we should make our escape from that awful place of starvation and death. There was one case I knew of where four of the boys got away by going out in the creek in all the fifth from the so called hospital where it passed out under the old board fence. These boys went a long way crawling on their hands and knees. Just their heads were above the water and filth from the whole camp of a thousand sick men until they were out of reach of the bullets of the guards.
Then as soon as they dared to immerse from the water they took up their long march of 300 miles for our lives in Tennessee. Poor boys, they were never to reach the goal they sought. While they were gone, for five days, at each roll call we answered to their names. I answered night and morning for five days at a great risk, for had I been detected of so doing
I would have been doomed to the stocks or the chain gang for a term of five days and nights or more. They held a thing of that kind to be a great crime and criminal offence to one of the rules of the prison department. After six days they were missed by our no longer answering to their names and the dog man was notified. He turned the whole gang loose and they finally struck the trail and followed it a day and a night when the boys were overtaken with the dog keeper close at hand on a mule. The boys thought they could, with clubs and stones, fight them off and finally subdue them and go on their way, but not so, for a pack of hungry bloodhounds was not so easy and enemy to whip. The boys were captured and, with limbs torn and bleeding, marched back to the stocks and prison only to suffer for a few days and die a horrible death from their wounds and exposure. The prison keeper was very angry and put them in the stocks where three of the five died, as he and the guards looked on with seeming pleasure of such a horrible death. I cannot express my feelings toward those who caused us all to suffer so much so I will leave it to you who may read the simple words to judge for yourselves.

Local and Personal

Miss Alice Joy was home from Berkeley over the holidays.

Miss Marion Copeland left last Thursday for her school in Fresno.

Mr. Burleigh and family moved Thursday to Fuller avenue near San Jose.

Miss Beth Bucknall is taking a course in elocution and physical culture at Kings
this year.

Miss Catton of the High School has gone back to her old home with Prof.
James' family.

Miss Charlotte Davis was home from her school at Burrell, near Wright, over Saturday and Sunday.

Have you any prune wood for sale?
If you have why not put a little ad in the Press, saying so. It will sell your wood for you.

The W. C. T. U. will meet with Mrs.
Charles Townsend on Wednesday, Sept.
21st., at 2.30 o'clock. Everybody cordially invited.

Seba Weeks has added to his stock of well-kept meats, different varieties of fish, which the public can always find fresh and on sale Friday of each week.

The many friends of Miss Grace F.
Bucknall will be glad to know that she has had the cast removed from her leg
and is able to be around again on crutches.

Mrs. E. Hancock will start for Colorado someday this week. She goes to her old Brighton home near Denver to close up things there as they have decided to make California their future home.

Harlow Plimpton, former assistant cashier of the Bank of Campbell is down
from Vacaville and renewing old time Campbell acquaintances. He looks as though Vacaville had an ideal climate.

Mrs. George Nimmo, nee Jessie Wood, is at Mrs. Henry Campbell's for an extended visit. She is a graduate of Campbell High School and her old school friends are glad to welcome her back.

Rev. J. F. Wilson and wife left this morning for a two days' drive to Pacific Grove where they will attend the Conference of the M. E. Church which is in session from Wednesday the 21st until Monday the 26th.

A little dinner was given in honor of Miss Jeanette Veale of Grass Valley by Mrs. Adeline Coates last Sunday. Miss Veale is to marry Mr. George Gleason, who is a son of Mrs. Coates, in the near future. Mr. Gleason is a mining man of Gaston, Nevada County.

The Rev. J. W. Lewis of Campbell is now an inmate of the Garden City Sanitarium, he having gone there for much needed special treatment. His many friends in town will be glad to hear of his immediate and permanent improvement.

A much needed improvement is that made recently by C. B. Mirale. He has removed the rustic from the northern wall of his carpenter shop on Foote avenue, and fitted up the rear end of the shop with racks for holding mouldings, flooring, and finished lumber in general.

Miss Floy Lloyd and Miss Margaret Fahlinger left Thursday for Forestville, Sonoma county, where they will take up their school work again. Miss Lloyd is the principal of the school in which Miss Fahlinger teaches. Miss Zena Kennedy will follow them today as she has a position as teacher in the same school.

If you wish to see what Campbell can do in walnut just take a peep at the sample on view in the Press window.
These came from the Moulton orchard on Johnson avenue and are from grafts on the black walnut. No more striking variety of the English or, possibly Russian walnut, can be found in the State.

At the official board meeting of the M.
E. Church held last Wednesday night the following delegates were elected to the Lay Association held in Pacific Grove
Friday, Sept. 23, at ten o'clock: W. H.
Hindle, Miss Mary Lewis, and L. C.
Dick; alternates, Mrs. Jennie Parker, Mrs.
J. F. Wilson and Mr. Woodward.

One other thing I saw there that I had read and heard much about was the whipping of a negro slave who had tired of his condition and tried to get away to our lines after the fall of Atlanta. His courage failed him and he returned to receive his punishment with the cat-of-nine tails. I was out for medicine and witnessed this horrible practice of that country. They laid him down on his face across a log, tied his feet and hands to a stake or post, made his back bare and then one man gave him 40 licks. When he tired the second man took his turn.
When the man had received the 80 strokes he was silent and appeared to be dead but when the salt was applied it brought him to new life. What he suffered can never be told. This, I understood, was an order of General Winder, the commander of the department of Georgia, who afterwards died a traitor to his government. He must answer to his God for his conduct here. He that doeth wickedness cannot escape punishment.
(To be Continued next week.)

Born—to Mr. and Mrs. Rose, Tuesday morning, a girl.

Miss Mabel Sargeant, whose home is near Palo Alto is here for a visit with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thackery.

Rev. J. E. Talbert of College Park will preach both morning and evening, Sept.
18, at the Methodist Church. Mr. Talbert is a very interesting speaker and should have a good hearing.

C. H. Whitman, our wide-awake hardware man, is now cosily ensconced in his new office which consists of an addition to the east side of his building about 9x10 in size. It will prove a notable addition to his comfort, also, in the added
light which it gives him for office work, and the ease with which it may be heated in winter. He has not yet decided whether the floor shall be covered with axminster or oriental rugs. Either would be in keeping with the Campbell outlook.

News in a Nutshell.

Sacramento.—The tax rate was fixed at 35 cents and 3 mills, 1 cent lower than the rate for 1909, by the State Board of Equalization.

Redding.—The Miners' Hotel, the Pittsburg House and half a dozen small dwellings were destroyed by fire in the smelter town of Del Mar. The origin of the blaze is unknown.

Placerville.—There is an apparently authentic report current here that ex-Mayor Eugene E. Schmitz of San Francisco has acquired the Eureka slate quarries at Slatington, in this county, and that he will operate them on a large scale in the immediate future.

San Francisco.—Prince Tsai Hsun, uncle of the Emperor of China and special representative of the Chinese Empire in a tour of inspection of the navies of the world, will arrive in San Francisco September 16th. He will be received with all the honors due a foreign potentate.

Portland, Or.—California bred horses swept the entire card of five light harness events at Portland September 1. This is probably a record without a precedent at an important harness meeting. The winners were Lizzie Dillon, Pegasus, Conqueror, Almador and Judge Dillon.

Monmouth, Or.—Because he had thrashed his 18-year-old daughter severely with a stick, J. W. Peterson, the keeper of a shooting gallery in the Rose hop yard, where picking is in progress near here, was taken out by irate hop-pickers, tied up, stripped and beaten with a horsewhip.

Yreka.—Siskiyou county's new bridge across the Klamath river near Seiad, burned a few days ago. The steel structure cost $11,000 and was built last summer. The loss of the wooden flooring and approaches will be $1000. The county authorities believe that the bridge was set on fire. The nearest house is a mile away.

Sacramento.—At the public auction sale of lieu land scrip held by Surveyor General Kingsbury, 1,462.16 acres were sold for $12,257.65, the average being $8.38 an acre. Previous to the passage by the Legislature in 1909 of the Thompson lieu land bill, under the provisions of which the sale was held, the State received $1.25 for each acre sold.

San Francisco.—Alex Szafeur, who shot and killed his wife at their home, 216 Frederick street, a few weeks ago and who was convicted by a jury in Judge Cabaniss' court last week of murder in the first degree, was sentenced to be hanged on November 18th. Szafeur heard his doom pronounced without a tremor. It is understood that he wishes to die.

San Francisco.—The First National Bank of San Francisco must refund to the Otis Elevator Company the sum of $6496.50, which was drawn from the bank in August, 1903, by H. T. Bliss, cashier of the elevator company, who raised two checks signed by Samuel Burger, general manager of the Otis company. The Supreme Court affirmed the decision of the trial court in finding for the Otis company in its suit against the bank.

Susanville.—The origin of the recent big forest fire north of here, near Fall City, Shasta county, has been traced to two youths, one being a son of Attorney Norman Barry of Susanville, and the other his chum, named Winchester. According to information at the national forest headquarters, these youths became separated and lost while hunting in the mountains and started small fires to signal each other by smoke.

Tacoma.—Leaving the Northern Pacific train in the depot at Seattle to get some cigars, Charles O. Marvin saw the train pulling out from the depot when he returned. His bride whom he married two weeks ago, was aboard the train. Marvin hired a taxicab to race for the train and pulled into the Northern Pacific depot here, 38 miles, 10 minutes ahead of the train, where Marvin awaited his bride, who smiled away her tears.

WAGING WARFARE AGAINST DESTRUCTIVE ORCHARD PESTSHorticultural Commissioner Seulerberger
at Work in Alameda County.

Livermore.—Horticultural Commissioner J. F. Seulerberger, accompanied by Horticultural Inspectors Ehrlich and Peterson, has just finished a tour of all the orchards and vineyards in the Livermore valley, in the initial campaign waged in this district by the county officials against the pests that have caused thousands of dollars damage yearly to the Livermore growers. Systematic war is to be waged against the codling moth, the wooly aphis, the canker worm and the root borer, in addition to many other minor pests.

The trip has been productive of great good and scores of fruit growers are now actively at work taking the proper steps to rid their trees of fungi and insects. In addition to helping the growers, Commissioner Seulerberger and his assistants gained an intimate and first-hand knowledge of the conditions that exist in the orchards of this part of the county, and will know in the future what districts will need the greatest attention.

The horticultural experts found that a great ignorance prevailed among the fruit growers as to the proper method of ridding the orchard of pests. Every fruit district in the entire county is to be visited by Seulerberger, who will distribute everywhere a special pamphlet prepared by his office, describing the troubles that are encountered by orchardists and setting forth the most practical remedies and control.

Death of Famous Character.

Dublin.—James Fitzharris, better known by the name of "Skin the Goat," who drove the cart containing the assassins of Lord Frederick Cavendish, chief Secretary of Ireland, and T. H. Burke, the permanent under-Secretary, to the scene of the crime in Phoenix Park, May 6, 1882, died in the workhouse. Fitzharris was released in 1903, after serving 20 years of a life sentence for his share in the tragedy.

Miss Florence M. Pardee Killed.

San Rafael.—Miss Florence M. Pardee, daughter of former Governor George C. Pardee, was killed Sunday morning in an automobile accident near Corte Madera when the machine containing Miss Pardee and four companions turned turtle over a 10-foot embankment while on the way from Tiburon to Larkspur. The other members of the party escaped serious injuries.

Corporations Own Island Wealth.

Honolulu.—The total assessed value of property in Hawaii, according to the compilation of the territorial treasurer for the year just passed is $150,312,000, in round numbers, of which the corporations own $110,328,867. On this taxes to the amount of $2,736,650 were paid, a gain of more than $50,000 over the preceding year.

Chaffee Patriotic Grandad.

Los Angeles.—Lieutenant-General Adna R. Chaffee, U. S. A., (retired), who resides in this city, was so elated over the news of the birth of a grandson, Adna R. Chaffee III, that he had the American flag hoisted over his home and celebrated the event in thorough patriotic style.

Oakland's Equable Climate.

Oakland.—In the meteorological synopsis just issued by Professor Charles Burkhalter of the Chabot Observatory for the month of August, Oakland's average temperature for the month is shown to be 60.4 degrees, the mean barometer 29.94, and the relative humidity 82.2.

Biggest Cheese on Record.

Appleton, Wis.—What is said will be the largest cheese in the world has been made in Appleton for the National Dairy Show at Chicago, October 20th. The weight of the cheese is 4000 pounds. It is 15 feet feet in diameter and four feet high.

Date Set for Charlton Case.

New York.—Prosecutor of Pleas Garven announced that the hearing in the case of Porter Charlton will take place September 21st. Charlton's extradition to Italy depends on the result of this examination.

Exposition in Brazil.

Washington.—Advices from Brazil state that plans are afoot there to hold an international exposition in 1915 to celebrate the elevation of that country to a kingdom.

No Tennis Team for Australia.

New York.—No American team will be sent to Australia next year to play the Australian holders of the Davis cup for the international lawn tennis trophy.

Panorama of Pageantry Marked
State's Sixtieth Birthday

Queen California's army of occupation held San Francisco on September 9th and from ten o'clock in the morning until five in the afternoon her legions passed in review and kept the thousands along the way spellbound with an array that was matchless in picturesqueness, dash and military impressiveness. The queen city of the coast was ready for the frolic of its life and the minions of Queen Grace were favored by sun and breeze. Morning found the seven hills of the metropolis radiant and expectant, glittering and almost tropical in a warm glow of sunshine.

The triumphant march of the mile-long army was a scene of Oriental splendor. It took 1500 musicians to keep the countless feet stepping in time. Seventy-five bands, besides the drum corps of the Native Sons, kept martial airs in the ears of the paraders with tunes ranging from "Marching Through Georgia" to "Kings on My Fingers and Bells on My Toes."

Zouaves and bluejackets, scarlet tunics of the marine band, regulars and militia in full dress blues, Native Sons and other fraternal organizations in white, purple and green and gold, rainbow colors, shifting, changing, brilliant in the sun, stretching from the shores of the bay to the top of Twin Peaks, swimming in a haze of azure.

There was not a cloud-fleck in the sky. The breeze was warm; the air suggested southern France or Italy. The proud thousands watching the rainbow array never left their places in line nor was there a straggler.

The paraders swept through the Mission and down Market street, counter-marching at the Ferry, then along Montgomery, Bush and out again at Kearney to Van Ness and Market, passing in review there before the Governor, the Mayor and the various staff officers and guests of the committee.

Thirty-five divisions comprised the pageant that filled the day with an old world military review. From the first to the last they moved out like seasoned soldiers, without a hitch or a break in ranks to mar the effect. Thousands and thousands howled themselves hoarse as the legions passed from Twenty-fourth and Mission streets to the Ferry, miles of massed humanity surged against the ropes. Windows and housetops were alive with people; grandstands were packed, lateral streets were filled with wagons making human pyramids overlooking those on the pavements, and all were cheering and waving banners. The crowds were as much a marvel as the parade. The Portola throng was outdone, and that established a new record in numbers.

Market street was a gigantic arch of yellow poppies and myriads of flags, paper-ribbon streamers and bright colored bunting, fluttering gaily over the heads of those in ranks.

Here and there were patches of flaming color, which came nearer and proved to be parlors of Native Daughters in some distinctive color—pink dresses and pink parasols, floats filled with yellow chrysanthemums and gold-clad girls, dainty misses in white, under evergreen canopies.

Queen Grace, in a white and gold chariot, from a lofty throne about which were grouped her maids of honor, found herself the center of interest. Preceded by a herald, her float drawn by six white horses and attended by outriders and pages, the royal party renewed the enthusiasm of the spectators.

Some idea of the enormous crowds that witnessed the parade may be gathered from the fact that the route was six and a quarter miles long, and that the people were packed densely on each side of the street over the entire distance. Twelve and a half miles of sidewalk literally stuffed with people. It requires no very great stretch of the imagination to estimate the number of spectators of the parade at little short of half a million.

According to the general estimates given out by the railroad officials, there were more than 200,000 visitors in the city. These figures, coming from conservative sources, it is not likely to be an exaggeration to place the number of outside people who watched the parade at a quarter of a million.

Maine Engulfed by Tidal Wave of Democratic Votes

Portland, Me.—Maine went Democratic Monday. It elected Frederick W. Plaisted of Augusta, a Democrat, as Governor, upset the hitherto solid Congressional delegation in at least two and possibly all four of the districts, and to the surprise of the political leaders, Democratic as well as Republican, the returns indicate the possibility that the next Legislature will be Democratic. The Senate will surely have a Democratic majority. The House complexion is in doubt.

It was the first beating the Republicans of Maine have had in 30 years, and by a coincidence Harris M. Plaisted, father of the present successful candidate, was Maine's last Democratic Governor in 1881.

Returns from all but 48 of the election districts of the State showed a plurality for Plaisted for Governor of $500.

The missing districts are nearly all in remote parts of Aroostock county and in outlying islands along the coast.

In the Second district, which was formerly represented by the late Nelson M. Dingley, father of the Dingley law, Daniel J. McGillicuddy was elected Congressman by 3000 over John P. Sweasy, the incumbent, and Congressman Edwin C. Burleigh, who has represented the Third district since 1892, was defeated by Samuel W. Guild, Democrat, by a small majority.

The result in the First and Fourth districts is much in doubt, although the indications are that Asher C. Hinds, Republican, had won over William H. Pennell, Democrat, in the former, and that Congressman Frank E. Guernsey, Republican, had been defeated in the latter by George M. Hanson, Democrat, by a small vote.

The First district seat was formerly occupied by Speaker Thomas B. Reed, while the late Charles A. Boutelle was for many years the Fourth district Representative.

According to late returns there will be at least 20 Democratic Senators out of 31, 58 Democratic Representatives out of 151 in the next Legislature, indicating that the Democratic party will have the choosing of a successor to United States Senator Hale next winter.

The vote for Governor, with 48 small precincts missing, was: Plaisted, Democrat, 72,708; Fernald, Republican, 63,715. The corresponding vote in 1906, also an off year, was Cobb, Republican, 68,087; Davis, Democrat, 60,784.

The missing districts in 1904 gave Cobb, Republican, 1149; Davis, Democrat, 690.

The Republican leaders were at a loss to account for their overwhelming defeat. The weather was perfect and they offered no excuse along that line. The issues were well understood and most of the speakers had confined themselves to State matters, scarcely mentioning national affairs.

Close political observers, however, early hard mutterings, not loud, but deep. The so-called "old guard" had to stand a lot of party criticism, and even the leaders were out of harmony with a new element which had begun to manifest itself, especially in the western part of the State.

Roosevelt's Fist is as Powerful
as His Big Stick

Washington.—The self-possession displayed by Colonel Roosevelt in handling the crank at Fargo, N. D., a few days ago, recalled among his friends an incident which occurred while he was President. The incident was kept quiet at the time. Accompanied by Secret Service Agent Craig and Secretary Root, the President agreed to go on a midnight walk. Craig was 15 or 20 feet behind the two statesmen. They were walking down Connecticut avenue when Craig was horrified to see a big man jump from behind a tree and lunge at the President.

There was a smash and a thud, and the President was rubbing his right fist, which he had bruised when he sent it crashing against his would-be assailant's jaw. Craig turned his attention to the man who had been knocked senseless. He worked over him for 15 minutes before he restored him to consciousness.

FARMERS' COMMITTEE WATCH
BUILDING OF NEW HIGHWAYSSan Joaquin Ranchers Insist on Good
Work in New County System.

Stockton.—The announcement that State Engineer Nat Ellery will come here and inspect the construction of the roads being built under the supervision of the Highway Commission has caused much interest in the work of the Farmers' Good Roads Committee. This committee was recently organized for the purpose of seeing that the contractors lived up to all the specifications of the various contracts.

This does not signify that the commission or the engineers have been lax in their duties, but the committee, which is composed of residents of the various districts in which the work is being done, have different ideas in interpreting the specifications. They claim that the contractors are not making the roads in the proper manner and are urging changes, which are greatly complicating matters.

Engineer Ellery has notified the farmers that after he has made an examination of the roads he will meet them in a mass meeting, where it is hoped to smooth over the differences now existing between the farmers and those in charge of the construction of the roads.

The committee was organized to act during the entire time the roads are being improved and each of the committeemen hears complaints from his district, and then lays them before the committee.

Chico Boy Aviator.

Chico.—Thaddeus Kerns, aged 17, who has been working on the model of an aeroplane here for a number of months, is now a full-fledged aviator. He made successful flights with his new machine at the speedway Sunday afternoon. The machine is of his own manufacture, except the engine, which was purchased in the East. As soon as the boy gets more accustomed to flights he proposes to try for some records for height.

Embezzled 25 Cents.

San Francisco.—The smallest amount in any complaint for embezzlement issued in the police courts was contained in a complaint sworn to before Police Judge Weller by F. F. Minaker of the Welsbach Company, 315 McAlister street, against John B. Riewerts, 19 years of age, who was arrested and released on bail. The amount is 25 cents alleged to have been embezzled on September 6th.

Will Not Be Called Queen Mother.

London.—The designation of Queen Mother, conferred on Queen Alexandra in some documents and also in the Church of England prayer book immediately after King Edward's death, is already obsolete. Her majesty expressed a desire to be styled Queen Alexandra, which in the future will be used on all occasions.

Season's Salmon Pack.

Seattle.—The total pack of sockeye salmon in British Columbia this season aggregated 543,525 cases, according to final figures that have just been announced. Last season, which was a "fat" year, the pack aggregated 967,920 cases; 1908, 542,698 cases; 1907, 547,459 cases; 1906, 629,460 cases.

Says Harvester Company is Trust.

Jefferson City, Mo.—Special Commissioner Theodore Brace filed his report in the ouster suit against the International Harvester Company of America. He found that the company is a trust, in violation of the anti-trust laws of Missouri, and that its charter should be forfeited.

Czar Donates Toward Church.

Passaic, N. J.—The Czar of all the Russias is now known in Passaic as one of the city's leading philanthropists. He has contributed $40,000 toward the erection of a new Russian orthodox church at Passaic. The structure will cost $120,000.

Washington.—The construction of the fortifications along the Panama canal is to be done by the same engineering organization which is building the canal itself.

Washington.—The construction of permanent buildings in the Philippines for the use of the army rather than temporary structures such as have been the rule, has been decided upon by the War Department.

Washington.—The United States army is to be recruited to the minimum strength of 87,000 men. At present it numbers 82,000. This is the result of a conference between President Taft and General Wood, chief of staff.

Tokio.—Serious floods threaten the cities of Osaka and Kobe, on the Island of Hondu. River banks are collapsing and much damage is probable. High water also is doing serious damage in the northern part of the main island.

St. Petersburg.—Advices from Tcheran state that the parliamentary committee has proposed the appointment of Americans as financial advisers to Persia, to replace the Swiss citizens, who are subject to German and French influence.

Santiago, Chile.—After an illness of six days with pneumonia, Vice-President Elias Fernandez Albano, who had been acting President of the Republic of Chile since the death of President Pedro Montt at Bremen, Germany, August 16th, died.

Franklin, Pa.—Joseph C. Sibley, who retired from the race for Congress when his wholesale corruption of voters was exposed, has been indicted. The Grand Jury returned true bills against Sibley and associates for conspiracy to bribe the voters of the Twenty-eighth Congressional district.

St. Paul, Minn.—Francis J. Heney, former San Francisco graft fighter and prosecuting attorney, will enter the First district of Minnesota to campaign against James A. Tawney, chairman of the finance committee, because of the manner in which Tawney two years ago held up a bill of Heney's against the Government for $13,000.

Rome.—The Duke d' Abruzzi recently met a little girl on the street, who asked him to buy a lottery ticket, and the heir to the throne, attracted by her bright and pretty face, did so. A few days ago he was informed that the ticket had drawn prize of $18,000. He promptly announced that he intended giving the prize to the little girl who sold him the ticket.

Berlin.—A daring attempt has been made on the lives of the Czar or his family, according to dispatches received here. Two strangers wearing the uniform of the Eighty-eighth infantry succeeded in getting through the outer line of detectives, but failed to pass the inner line of sentries, not having the password. It is believed they are agents of the Russian revolutionary party.

Chicago.—Members of the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks, in annual convention, passed resolutions denouncing an executive order issued by President Roosevelt in 1902. The order prohibited postoffice clerks under civil service to solicit increases in salaries or betterment of conditions or to give to members of Congress information regarding their work unless permission is first given by the Postal Department.

St. Joseph, Mo.—An autopsy on the body of Sallie Rohrer, a negro who died at a local hospital of kidney disease, revealed a remarkable collection of junk in her stomach, some of which had been there for years. The collection weighed five pounds and included 125 nails, assorted; three iron nuts, two iron bolts, 50 safety pins, 150 hairpins, 45 buttons, 40 pebbles, 30 common pins, 40 carpet tacks, 10 prune stones, one automobile tag.

London.—John B. Moissant, the Chicago aviator, started from Issy, on the outskirts of Paris, August 16th, in an attempt to fly from Paris to London with a passenger. He successfully negotiated the distance from Issy to Amiens, Calais, and across the English channel in a driving rainstorm to Deal, where he arrived August 17th. Although he resumed his flight, still accompanied by his mechanic, the following day, a complication of accidents and bad weather prevented him from reaching his objective point until September 6th.

The Cough of Consumption

Your doctor will tell you that fresh air and good food are the real cures for consumption. But often the cough is very hard. Hence, we suggest that you ask your doctor about your taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It controls the tickling, quiets the cough.

We publish our formulas. We banish alcohol from our medicines. We urge you to consult your doctor.

One of Ayer's Pills at bedtime will cause an increased flow of bile, and produce a gentle laxative effect the day following. Formula on each box. Show it to your doctor. He will understand at a glance. Dose, one pill at bedtime.

SOME INTERESTING STATISTICS.

What Combination Is Doing for the Independent Merchant.

Shall we take restaurant keeping? The Standard Oil interests control one "chain" of restaurants and the American Tobacco interests control another. Or printing? One house in New York issues and prints twenty periodicals, and the small independent printer, like the small independent publisher, is disappearing.

Milk? The Standard Oil interests own the Milk Trust.

Foundries or iron works? The Steel Trust looks after them.

Tobacco? The United Cigar Stores Company owns about six hundred retail stores and will own many more when the present chances of litigation are removed.

Machinery? Largely controlled by institutions like the American Shoe Manufacturing Trust, a particularly vicious form of these combinations.

Men's clothing? Passing into the "chain" system. One company owns thirty-seven clothing stores in the West.

Banks? Owned or controlled chiefly by the Standard Oil, Morgan or Beef Trust "chains."

Butcher shops? Under process of absorption through the absorbed grocery stores, or becoming practically the agencies for the Beef Trust.

The department stores constantly increase in number and in size.

What does that mean?

It means that the men that in a past generation would have been independent merchants are now the employees of these stores, and never can be anything else; employees on wages with time checks, fines, and their daily work dependent upon a manager's caprice. That is their prospect in life. It is hard (in some of its aspects), and we dislike to admit it, but it is the truth.

The gigantic department stores and mail order houses are built of the ruins of independent stores, just as the Christian churches of Rome were built of the fragments of the old temples, and each independent store destroyed is an independent merchant turned into a salaried employee.—Charles Edward Russell in Success Magazine.

"And what," pursued the examiner, "do we do with the bones?"

"P-please, sir," responded the boy, "we leave them on the s-s-sides of our plates."

AUTO BECOMING A FARM NECESSITY

Agriculturists Find the Motor Car to be a Time and Money Saver.

San Francisco.—For the purpose of arriving at the true facts and obtaining exact information relative to the rumors which have been so persistently circulated by some bankers, that automobiles were purchased by the wholesale with money secured by mortgaging homes, President Benjamin Briscoe of the United States Motor Company wrote to 24,000 bankers in the United States and enclosed a blank form asking the bankers to furnish him with the number of people in their vicinity who had mortgaged homes or who had borrowed money to purchase automobiles.

President Briscoe also asked the bankers to supply him, to the best of their knowledge, with the percentage of motor cars used for business or useful purposes and whether or not in the bankers' opinion the sale of automobiles would increase in their respective territory.

Replies have been received to date from 4,830 bankers who state that there are 198,216 automobiles in their cities and towns. Of this number only 1,254 have been purchased by the placing of mortgages and only 7,475 have borrowed money without mortgage to purchase automobiles.

In the opinion of 3,229 bankers, the sale of automobiles will increase during 1911 over that of 1910, while 1,601 say the sales will not increase. The latter, however, are bankers in the small towns and remote sections of the country where the increase in population is small, which may account for their opinion in part.

With less than one per cent of automobiles bought on mortgages and less than 4 per cent purchased with borrowed money, recent claims of alarmists are conclusively proved to be practically without any foundation whatever. The thorough investigation by the United States Motor Company has unquestionably exploded the irresponsible statements of a group of men who have endeavored to make the public believe that the automobile capital represented an economic waste. As a matter of fact, figures show the automobile business to be built upon as sound a foundation as that of any other industry.

Many of the letters are filled with optimistic statements and there is probably no class of business men in the country who are in a better position to throw light on the future of the automobile industry, and in fact any business, than the bankers.

These letters reveal the exact conditions in all sections of the country and it is with considerable gratification that a big percentage of the letters speak in glowing terms of the various business purposes to which the automobile is applied.

It is surprising that so many so-called pleasure cars are used by physicians, contractors, real estate dealers, farmers, the bankers themselves and other business men. Reports show that hundreds of the bankers own cars and they do not hesitate to say that they consider them helpful not only in ways of recreation, but in business as well.

Many of the letters deal upon the usefulness of the automobile for farmers. The automobile has brought the farming sections closer to the cities and is making the boys contented with farm life. It is keeping many of the farmers' sons on the farm instead of leaving the farm for city life. The farmer can go to town with a load in a short time and get back and do a day's work. In the evening they use the car in taking their families to lectures, concerts or the theatre and get home in time for a good night's sleep. It is the belief of many of the bankers in the rural sections that the automobile makes agricultural life worth living.

"We have no sympathy with talk that has been given out in New York circles as to the extravagance of a large proportion of automobile purchasers as to their duty to save their money, or at any rate, avoid the purchase of machines," says the president of one of the biggest banking houses in Chicago. "We believe if the same number of city and country folk had actually mortgaged their properties, as is alleged, and with the proceeds had bought securities which Wall Street has, that no suspicion of complaint would have been heard."

"It is, however, not at all a question of whether an investor buys an automobile or not, but simply a question of what becomes of the money after that; viz: whether it is put into enlarging an automobile plant or whether it is distributed to the stockholders, and by them invested in securities."

From Canton, Ill., comes the statement from an official of one of the largest banks, who says: "I have studied the matter over rather carefully and have concluded that the motor car is a coming necessity rather than a luxury. I realize the prejudices that exist against the purchase and use of them in general, and feel that it is only natural among some of the more conservative persons, but believe that they will be compelled to get over that feeling, as the motor car will within a few years entirely displace the horse-drawn vehicle for road travel."

"We have never yet known of a resident of Hood River or Hood Valley placing a mortgage upon his farm to buy an automobile, although there are many who have mortgages upon their farms that do not own automobiles," is the statement from the president of a bank in Oregon.

From the thrifty state of Iowa, the following is received from the cashier of a large bank: "We think that the machines owned here are used 50 per cent of the time for business. As a matter of fact, it has been the means of bringing the country into very close touch with the town and our farmers are now buying machines quite largely. From the number of farmers who come personally to the writer and ask if he thinks they would be capable of running a car, he thinks that the year 1911 will double the sales of 1910. As far as Iowa is concerned the farmers are just waking up to the possibilities of the automobile, and if you have ever had any experience with this class of trade, you will note that when one farmer in a neighborhood gets a thing, it is only a matter of a short time before the whole bunch have it."

A predominating feature of the correspondence reveals the frankness and thoroughness with which the bankers made the investigation. Many of them personally talked with automobile dealers and garage men, present and prospective owners of automobiles and the compilation shows vividly that these hard headed business men believe the automobile industry is practically in its infancy and that the public is only awakening to the great possibilities of the motor car.

The investigation instigated by President Briscoe is the only thorough investigation ever made by a motor car concern and the result plainly shows how easy it is for a few men to make statements at random and founded only on sensational reports which are not backed by the real facts and conditions.

President Briscoe was determined to know the facts regardless of the cost, time and labor which was necessary because the United States Motor Company, being the most important producers of automobiles in the industry was more vitally interested than any other one concern.

President Briscoe makes the statement that it is the policy of the United States Motor Company to "cut the cloth to fit the garment," and by having centralized the productive capacity of its sixteen large factories a beneficial control can be maintained for good to the purchaser, general industry and the company alike, and that what his company wants is true facts upon which it will base its production and extensions.

DOLPHINS.

The Species That Play Around the Shores of Brittany.

Dolphin hunting as a sport is old to the Malouins, the inhabitants of St. Malo. Several species of dolphins are to be met with near the shores of Brittany. The largest is known to science as Delphinus delphis and differs from other varieties by its long jaws, very like the beak of a big bird, and armed with about sixty teeth as hard and sharp as steel. Its length may reach nine feet, and it weighs from 300 to 400 pounds. A swift swimmer, it preys on the schools of herrings, following them right up to the Scottish waters. In spite of its greed it is noted for its mild temper and frequently amuses itself by playing around ships in the open sea. Then there is the Delphinus tursio, or souffleur. This is smaller and its beak is shorter, though armed with strong, powerful teeth that enable it to attack a big fish, pinning it down to the rocks with such force that its nose is often deeply marked with numerous cuts. This dolphin hates the very sight of a ship and never comes close to one. Finally there is the porpoise, or marcouin, the smallest species of the genus. Much sport may be obtained by hunting these various dolphins.—Wide World Magazine.

Feeding to the Finish.

Justice Monkey ate all the cheese that he was called upon to divide equally between two joint owners, because at one time he bit a little too much from what was in one scalepan and the next time a little too much from what was in the other. Somewhat similar was the predicament in which a guest at the table of C. H. McCormick, the inventor of the reaper, found himself. The story is told in the recently published book, "Cyrus Hall McCormick."

A very dignified and self-centered military officer was taking supper with the McCormick family. The first course, as usual, was corn meal mush and milk. It was served in Scotch fashion, with the hot mush in one bowl and the cold milk in another. The practice was so to co-ordinate the eating of them that both were finished at the same time.

The officer planned his spoonfuls badly, and was soon out of milk.

"Have some more milk to finish your mush, colonel," said McCormick. Several minutes later the colonel's mush bowl was empty, at which McCormick said, "Have some more mush to finish your milk." And so it went, with milk for the mush and mush for the milk, until the unfortunate colonel was hopelessly incapacitated for the four or five courses that came afterward.

A Curious Custom.

In observance of a custom, which is said to have originated over 500 years ago, 21 aged widows of the parish of St. Bartholomew the Great, London, attended the church the other forenoon to receive sixpence each, which they had to pick off a gravestone. The custom is the survival of a bequest left by a lady for the provision of doles for widows over 60 years of age, on condition that prayers were offered for her soul every Good Friday. The tombstone from which the money is picked is supposed to be that of the benefactress, but it is so crumbled with age that it is impossible to say whose it is. This uncertainty, however, does not interfere with the usefulness of the coins to any considerable extent.

It's a poor sort of a man who would do wrong if only he could be sure of a cool spring down in hell.

ADVERTISED AT LAST

THERE was a merchant in our town

Who was so wondrous wise
He saw his business running down,
Yet would not advertise.

SAID he: "I cannot see the sense
When trade is at its worst
Of multiplying my expense.
I'll wait till trade comes first."

AT last this merchant, ill advised,
Had naught to do but fail,
And then the sheriff advertised
A bankrupt auction sale.

LAWLESSNESS

By D. M. MARSHMAN

As sensitive Americans, we may be very reluctant to admit that our nation is characterized by more lawlessness than any other civilized nation, a charge which is preferred by many critics at home, as well as abroad, but an ugly array of statistics goes far to substantiate it. This discreditable disregard for law is probably due, in great measure, to an exaggerated spirit of independence which leads the average American to foster the belief that he has the right to do pretty much as he pleases, irrespective of the laws which would hamper his absolute freedom. Immigrants, exposed to this belief when becoming citizens, have readily caught the infection, and encouraged by the shameful laxity of law enforcement with which we are further chargeable, a condition of lawlessness has developed which is alarming. Frequent crimes, many of which are of the most revolting character, are reported in the daily press. With growing frequency, especially in the northern states, these crimes are perpetrated by mobs, which indicates a growth of lawlessness. For instance, within the last few weeks, nearly one hundred citizens were lynched in the South. In Neoga, Illinois, the home of a Presbyterian pastor was dynamited because he had been active in suppressing boot-legging.

The lynching of Carl Etherington, at Newark, Ohio, July 8, is still fresh in the public mind. He was taken from jail by a mob and hanged after a force of detectives had raided three saloons, and Etherington had shot a saloon keeper who assaulted him, while attempting to enforce the law against illicit selling. The defense offered for this anarchistic lynching by the agent of the Brewers' organization is worthy of note. He lays the blame upon the people who secured the passage of the law which was offensive to the people who did the lynching! He says in effect that they would not object to keeping the law if the law were not distasteful to them. As it is, being anarchists and lynchers, they will not be controlled!

It is plain that here is the secret of all types of lawlessness. It is antipathy to law, engendered by a selfishness which disregards the rights or welfare of others, which are opposed to the carrying out of certain desired ends. This spirit brooks no restraint, and ignores all attempts to hold it within proper bounds. But this is the spirit of anarchy, which, if indulged by all, would result in universal ruin. In France, when the cry of the people was: "Away with the kings and rulers! Down with religion and law! Let us be free!" The whole world shuddered at the fearful scenes which followed, as the mad passion of the people ran riot, and the streets of Paris and the fair fields of France were deluged with blood.

The apparent need of the hour is a greater measure of self control. Until people generally, rather than their legislators or statesmen, manifest a desire to obey not only the letter, but the spirit of the law, there can be no hope for a cessation of lawlessness. For, after all, the underlying spirit of all law worthy of the name is the spirit of the Golden Rule, and all disregard of the rights and welfare of others, in matters great or small, is essentially lawlessness.

Campbell is rapidly coming up to date. If you wish proof of this witness the work so far done on the new bank building which is ample proof that the structure when finished will be an ornament to a metropolis even. Witness also the new cottage in process of completion for R. K. Thomas, on Campbell avenue. The inside finish will be the envy of every housewife in Campbell, and is surely most artistic. The contractors, Messrs. Dunham and Seamans, can ever refer to this as proof of their skilled workmanship.

Well, gentlemen of the Improvement Club, what about that park improvement? It was two or three months ago that a fund was subscribed to make it more inviting and even the hobo must have noticed that this is sorely needed. Other things are moving, even the Press, why not the Park hedge? Campbell will be just what we people in it make it. Let's go to work and make the Park presentable.

A Local Pigeon Industry

How many of our townspeople know that there is a pigeon industry in Campbell? Our townsman J. M. Williams on Railroad avenue is utilizing a small bit of his lot in fostering this industry. On a space not covering more than fifty feet square he has a colony of some eighty birds, more or less. They are made up of mixed common, Rock and Homer pigeons, and are certainly thriving. He ships to San Francisco when they are about a month old and averages about $2.25 a dozen. He will shortly introduce some Carneau from a fancier in Massachusetts, this breed having the call note for size, quick, maturity, and prolific breeding. Success to any industry that will piece out prunes.

Forest fires in Monterey Co. fifteen miles from King City have endangered the home of Mrs. Manuel Lopez, where Mr. A. M. Lopez and his family are staying at present. Mr. Lopez was thrown from his horse recently, falling twenty feet, striking on the back of his head and shoulders. He was severely injured but is now convalescing.

Al Bulmore has recently moved his house formerly located in the back end of his lot, so that it fronts on Second street and in line with other buildings on that roadway.

Donald Marshman returned Sunday evening from Pepperwood, Humboldt county, where he has been on a two months' surveying trip. He comes home to resume his studies at the San Jose Normal.

Containing 2 acres of land and being a portion of Pueblo Tract No. 1.

Parcel No. 3. A lot of land containing 4 61-100 acres of land. Part of Pueblo Tract No. 1 and being the same premises described in the Deed of even date thereof from Francisco C. Berryessa, executor of the Will of Jose Andres Berryessa, deceased, to said Juan Antonio Silveira, and filed for record July 20, 1888, in the Recorder's office of said County, which Deed from said Francisco C. Berryessa is hereby referred to for a more particular description of said 4 61-100 acres, and made a part hereof.

Parcel No. 4. Beginning at a stake marked B. 3 standing on the Southeastern line of lands of Manuela Berryessa N. 63 degrees 20 minutes E. 7.74 chains from the Westernmost corner of that certain tract as conveyed by J. A. Moultrie to Juan Antonio Silveira, by Deed dated July 29, 1888, in the Recorder's office of Santa Clara County, California; thence along the Eastern line of lands of Juan Antonio Silveira S. 31 degrees 45 minutes E. 18 71-100 chains to a stake marked B. 1 standing in the Northwesterly line of the Piedmont Road; thence along said road line N. 68 degrees E. 2.57 chains to a stake marked B. 2; thence N. 43 degrees 15 minutes E. 0.904 chains to a stake marked B. 2; thence N. 31 degrees 45 minutes W. 18 46 chains to a stake marked B. 3 standing in the said Southeastern line of lands now or formerly of Manuela Berryessa, and thence along said last mentioned line S. 63 degrees 20 minutes W. 7.74 chains to the place of beginning. Containing 1 1/2 acres, and being a part of the aforesaid 29-acre tract in Pueblo Tract No. 1. Courses true. Mag. Var. 16 degrees 45 minutes E.

Also, beginning at a stake marked "B" standing on the Southeastern line of lands now or formerly of Manuela Berryessa, and being the Westernmost corner of that certain 79-acre tract as conveyed by J. A. Moultrie to Enrique Berryessa and Jose Andres Berryessa, by Deed dated July 29, 1888, in the Recorder's office of Santa Clara County, California; thence along the Eastern line of lands of Juan Antonio Silveira S. 31 degrees 45 minutes E. 18 71-100 chains to a stake marked B. 1 standing in the Northwesterly line of the Piedmont Road; thence along said road line N. 68 degrees E. 2.57 chains to a stake marked B. 2; thence N. 43 degrees 15 minutes E. 0.904 chains to a stake marked B. 2; thence N. 31 degrees 45 minutes W. 18 46 chains to a stake marked B. 3 standing in the said Southeastern line of lands now or formerly of Manuela Berryessa, and thence along said last mentioned line S. 63 degrees 20 minutes W. 7.74 chains to the place of beginning. Containing 1 1/2 acres, and being a part of the aforesaid 29-acre tract in Pueblo Tract No. 1. Courses true. Mag. Var. 16 degrees 45 minutes E.

Parcel No. 5. Lot Number Four (4) of the partition of the Lucy A. Ogan Tract in Pueblo Tract No. 1, San Jose City Lands, as recorded in Book of Maps, page 81, Records of Santa Clara County, California, and also a perpetual right for use of water from the spring on Lot No. Five (5) of the partition of said tract, and being the same property and water right conveyed by James R. Ogan to one Robert W. Katz, by Deed dated November 13, 1897, and recorded in Book 201 of Deeds, page 485, Records of said Santa Clara County, California, containing 20 acres.

Parcel No. 6. A narrow strip of land containing about one acre lying adjacent to property described as parcel No. 4, containing about 97 acres, and being fourthly described; said one acre lying between the Sweetgert or Piedmont Road and Creek.

EXCEPTING those portions of Parcel No. 1, Parcel No. 2, and Parcel No. 3, which said portions of said tracts were heretofore set aside to said estate of John A. Silveira, as homestead, by an order duly given and made by the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Santa Clara, in the matter of the estate of John A. Silveira, deceased.

It is ORDERED that all persons interested in said estate appear before this Court, at its Court Room, Department 2, at the County Court House in the City of San Jose, in said County of Santa Clara, on FRIDAY, the 23rd day of SEPTEMBER, 1910, at 10 o'clock A. M., and then and there show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted and the real property above described mortgaged to secure a loan to said estate of $9700.00, or such lesser amount as the Court may deem meet, wherewith to pay the debts of said estate and the charges and expenses of administration.

For all further particulars of said petition you are hereby referred to the petition now on file herein. Dated August 12th, 1910. P. F. GOSBEY, Judge.

ROBERT R. SYER, Attorney for Administratrix.

SUMMONS

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE State of California, in and for the County of Santa Clara.

Nellie V. Hardman, plaintiff, vs. Roy L. Hardman, defendant.
Action brought in the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Santa Clara, and the complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said County of Santa Clara.

The People of the State of California send greeting to Roy L. Hardman, defendant.
You are hereby directed to appear and answer the complaint in an action, entitled as above, brought against you in the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Santa Clara, within ten days after service on you of this summons, if served within this county, or within thirty days if served elsewhere.

And you are hereby notified that unless you so appear and answer as above required, the said plaintiff will take judgment for any money or damages demanded in the complaint as above upon contract, or will apply to the court for any other relief demanded in the complaint.
Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the county of Santa Clara, this 8th day of August, A. D. 1910.

(Seal) HENRY A. PFISTER, Clerk.
By R. K. O'Neil, Deputy Clerk.
